Shortly a group of well-meaning citizens led by a Mr. Alco of San Francisco, member of the state board of prison directors, are going to attempt a wholesale strangulation of crime via the road of "anti-gun" legislation.

Mr. Alco will spur on his legions with this fallacy: "Disarm all and you'll disarm the criminal too." And the legions, unsuspecting and gullible creatures that they are, are apt to believe him.

Well, I intend to put my own community "wise" to the dangers of a law which disarms the respectable and law-abiding citizen, the while it fondly hopes the criminal is being disarmed by the same ordinance.

Here's what happens: The respectable citizen, because he is law-abiding, actually surrenders his weapon, while the thug in this, as in everything, simply thumbs his nose at the law, and thenceforth counts himself lucky indeed to be armed, while his potential victims have been deprived of their weapons by a group of dangerously insane people who cannot seem to realize that the thug will never be disarmed by law.

Let us examine the infamous "Sullivan law" of New York state. The good citizen and householder has been disarmed. Heavy penalties are meted out to the unfortunate posessor of a pistol unless he has a permit, not alone to carry it—but actually to own the weapon, which may never leave its owner's bed room.

The crooks, of course, retain their weapons—a glance at any daily paper will tell enough of New York violence to tell you that. Many known crooks in the big city are—God save the mark—deputy game wardens, and as such entitled to carry guns! The crook will always find a way. And even if anti-gun laws were successful in disarming the criminal along with the honest man, the crook would not go "unheeled" any longer than it took him to get in touch with the nearest gun smuggler or dealer in "hot" guns.

It might interest you to know that right now it is impossible for an honest man to come by a submachine gun—but a crook who knows the ropes can get one in San Francisco for about $50—and within half an hour of hitting town. That condition would continue to prevail in spite of anti-gun laws, for it is even now against the law to sell machine guns except to peace officers, banks, etc.

I ask you to view with extreme distrust any measure which proposes to disarm the honest citizen and leave him at the mercy of an armed crook. Write your state senator and assemblyman, telling them what you think of the proposed Alcot law.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Courtright, nee Lorena Wingard of Union avenue, will make their home in Willow Glen. The marriage of the young couple took place recently at Redwood City.

Almond Growers Uurge Retention Protective Duty

The California Almond Growers exchange is in full accord with the letters of the Agricultural Council of California of Aug. 27 to the President of the United States, "urging that agricultural import duties be not removed in the guise of relief," according to a statement issued here today by T. C. Tucker, manager of the exchange.

The statement further declares, "In addition, the administration is apparently proceeding by the reciprocal tariff agreement method to bring about reductions in the rates of duty, which, in the opinion of the exchange, threatens the welfare of many of our California specialty crops, including almonds.

The letter from the Agricultural Council of California of Aug. 27 to the President follows:

"At the recent annual meeting of the Agricultural Council of California, representing within its membership fully half the farmers of the state, the writer was instructed, by unanimous action, to communicate with you, urging that agricultural import duties be not removed in the guise of relief.

"It is reported in the papers that you are contemplating taking off the duty on Canadian grains and feedstuffs to aid stricken farmers of the middle west. We do not object to relief for these people, but feel that the proposed means will only bring farmers in many other portions of the country into distress through taking down the barrier to cheap foreign products. We believe that relief can be fully as effectively secured by other means, without working injury to producers in other sections of the country through reduction or elimination of tariff duties.

"We believe the same results can be secured by continuing the tariff as at present, collecting the duties on the materials that will come in, and then distributing those benefits where needed. Certainly, if relief is needed, it can just as well be provided without jeopardizing producers here at home, who have some crop at least. Dropping of the tariff will undoubtedly give the benefit largely to the foreign producer, or shipper, who will up his price to take full advantage of the situation. Any benefits there are should be distributed first to our own citizens.

"Another item worthy of serious consideration is the fact that we have been laboring under large surpluses which have kept prices down, and we understand there is sufficient surplus of grains already in this country to carry the nation through to another harvest without further imports. To take off the tariff would defeat the very program that is being sought, viz, to improve returns to the producer. There are many producers in this country in dire need of the benefits that will come from reasonable increases in prices. We believe you have in your hands the necessary power to prevent any undue price increase. That is sufficient.

"We most earnestly protest, therefore, against any reduction in these tariff rates, and urge that some other means be found to meet this situation."

Miss E. Farman Becomes Bride of Melford Waldo

Miss Elin Farman of North Second street Tuesday became the bride of Melford Waldo of San Francisco, in a quiet wedding held in the fashionable down-town Hotel Spaulding, San Francisco. The Reverend Kirby of the Methodist church conducted the ceremony.

Miss Farman, a daughter of Mrs. C. E. Farman and the late Dr. Farman, wore brown and white ensemble with brown accessories, and carried a bouquet of gardenias. Attending her as matron of honor was Mrs. L. Shibley of San Francisco. The groom was attended by Mr. Shibley.

Following the wedding, the intimates who had witnessed the event repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Farman, Jr., on Palm avenue where homage was paid the happy couple at a gay dinner party. Others present were Mrs. C. E. Farman, Mr. and Mrs. L. Shibley, Miss Rowena Farman, Miss Ruth Farman, and Dr. Lebenberg.

The couple will take up residence in San Francisco, where Mr. Waldo has a business.

Sentence was imposed as recommended by Max Watson, county probation officer. Watson also recommended that all of the jail sentence be suspended except 10 days and that White be placed on probation for two years, and after he has served his 10 days should remain out of the county for the duration of his probation. White started to serve his sentence Saturday.

Merchants Assn. To Meet Friday

Anyone interested in this drive is cordially invited to attend this meeting. The meeting is a preliminary to the annual dinner the merchants of Campbell, Santa Clara and Cupertino will hold in Odd Fellows hall in Santa Clara, Sept. 13, and will mark the start of a campaign to combat drives of larger cities to attract trade away from smaller communities. The campaign will end with the awarding of prizes the week before Christmas.

Anyone wishing to attend the dinner should make reservation with Dan Clark, president of the local organization, or with the association office in Santa Clara.

Wood Addresses Local Grangers

At a recent meeting of Orchard City grange Lloyd K. Wood, principal of Campbell union high school, was the principal speaker during the lecture hour.

In his interesting talk Mr. Wood promised that the school would cooperate with the community as much as possible and would furnish entertainment and music for local organizations when it could be arranged.

Mr. Wood also stated that frequently too much stress was put on competition and not enough on the regular scholastic program of the student.

His remarks were enthusiastically received, and the grangers pledged Mr. Wood their support.

"No income—no taxes!"

Such is the major inducement offered by sponsors of the so-called syncrotax amendment—revolutionary tax plan which will be submitted to California voters at the general election Nov. 6.

At a single stroke, advocates of the new plan propose to abolish all existing city, county, state and school taxes —wiping out every tax except improvement district levies and federal taxes.

And as a substitute for the present complicated tax structure, they propose enactment of the syncrotax—a gross transactions tax, which would take a percentage (variously estimated at from 1 to 5 per cent) of the gross income, money turnover, or value turnover, of every individual, co-partnership, corporation, institution, industry and enterprise.

From these revenues it is proposed to finance all California government, including local and state, as well as school support. The property tax, gas tax, sales tax, personal property tax, inheritance tax, franchise tax, the gross receipts tax on utilities, etc., would all be thrown into the discard.

There would be absolutely no exemptions under the syncrotax, except that banks would not be taxed in excess of 50 per cent of their net income. Charities, church collections, orphan aid, old age pensions and libraries and museums—all tax exempt under the present system—would be taxable under the new set-up, which would also cancel present exemptions for veterans.

Sponsors of the plan, headed by W. M. Patch of Los Angeles, guiding genius of the National Syncrotax association, advance the claim that syncrotax will effect an immediate improvement in business by abolishing all real estate taxes, except for the turnover tax.

"Under syncrotax," declares Patch, "the total tax on real property would, we believe, not exceed 2 per cent of its revenues and price when sold. The result would be a stupendous movement of this great basic commodity and a consequent increase in values. California, with such a low rate of real estate taxes, at once would become the 'white spot' of the nation for real estate development."

He also states: "Syncrotax proposes that any individual, company, institution and enterprise pays if, as and when money is received, thus effecting simple justice: No income —no taxes!"

While this statement is literally true, it must be kept in mind, however, that the syncrotax is a tax on gross income, rather than net income —and a business would pay the tax without regard to whether it showed a profit.

Virtually every exchange of money would be taxable under syncrotax — and every turnover of commodities, but proponents of the plan contend that the evils of "pyramiding" would be offset by the fact that the rate would be low and that all other forms of taxation would be abolished.

The tax would be administered by the state syncrotax administration, a board of 5 members—one elected at large to be paid $10,000 per year, and four, elected by districts, to be paid $8,000 per year. The tax would be collected by county syncrotax administrators, whose salaries would be fixed by the county boards of supervisors.

Appetizers for Summer Meals

WHEN THE family comes wearily home after a wilting summer day, they are not likely to be keenly interested in supper. Instead of walking briskly into the dining room to enjoy a hearty meal, they are more apt to drop listlessly into the nearest chairs in the vine shaded nooks of the front porch. At such times, something sharp and piquant creates a desire for other food and is really valuable. So while the family lingers in the cool places of the porch, pass a tempting platter of dainty tidbits—Hors d'oeuvres and Canapes—to tease their fickle appetites into enthusiasm for the supper that is to follow. These appetizers are simple to make and are certainly worth the small bit of extra effort that they require. Nor need they be an extravagance. Left-overs with sauces and dressings and subtly blended prepared spreads will serve as fillings. Spread these on thin rounds of toasted bread, arrange attractively on a platter or tray and serve on the porch. Your family will enjoy appetizers with the following suggested fillings.

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

Ham Canape—Toast 6 rounds brown bread on one side and spread untoasted side with butter creamed with Prepared Brown Mustard, using 2 tablespoons butter and ½ teaspoon Mustard in all. Cover with minced ham mixed with India Relish (1 cup minced ham and ¼ cup India Relish will be needed). Garnish with slices of Stuffed Spanish Olives and serve cold.

Tuna Fish Canape—Drain 1 7-oz. can tuna fish, mash very fine and add 2 teaspoons Prepared Brown Mustard, ½ teaspoon salt and 4 tablespoons Mayonnaise. Toast rounds or squares of bread on one side only and spread untoasted side with the fish mixture. Garnish with a narrow border of India Relish. Chill and serve.

Cheese and Olive Canape—Blend 1 1½-oz. package Roquefort cheese with ½ package cream cheese. Toast finger lengths of bread on one side only and spread untoasted side with cheese mixture. Garnish with overlapping slices of Stuffed Spanish Olives.

Caviar Canape—Toast oblong shapes of bread on one side. Spread untoasted side with Mayonnaise, then with caviar to which has been added an equal amount of Preserved Sweet Pickled Onions, very finely minced. Garnish with slices of Stuffed Spanish Olives.

Dexter Canape—Toast rounds of bread on one side and spread untoasted side with Mayonnaise. Add thin slices of tomato, then slices of hard cooked egg. Sprinkle lightly with salt and garnish with a slice or two of Stuffed Spanish Olives.

Peanut Butter and Pickle Canape—Spread very thin square crackers with Peanut Butter. Drain India Relish thoroughly and place a border around edges. Chill and serve.

Stuffed Eggs—Cut hard cooked eggs in half. Remove and mash centers, adding an equal amount of Sandwich Spread. Season. Refill eggs, chill, sprinkle with paprika, and serve.

Potato Chips with Roquefort—Mash Roquefort cheese and blend with Tomato Ketchup. Spread on crisp potato chips, and serve.

Stuffed Celery—Mix equal amounts of Peanut Butter and pimiento cheese. Cream together. Fill small stalks of celery and chill.

First Payment by Ass'n. Announced

California Prune and Apricot Growers association announced here today the schedule of first payment to be made to its grower members on their 1934 crop prune deliveries. Officials stated "that the advance payment on prunes, which is computed to be from 60 to 65 per cent of the estimated current value of the fruit will be paid on 100 per cent of the members' deliveries. Although the association will be pooling all substandard fruit and a percentage of standard fruit in the reserve pool created by the prune industry agreement, through the clearing house operation of the control board, this fruit will be sold for the beneficial interest of the association, and is not therefore discounted. In fact, under the terms of the agreement, the association is entitled to repurchase its own fruit, and the transaction may be generally expected to balance, in that the association's participation in the reserve pool will offset its purchase."

H. C. Dunlap, president of the association, stated, "The first payment is similar to the initial advance on the 1933 crop. On sizes from 31 to 40 points, the advance is increased 1-8 cent. On 41 to 71 point, the payment is the same, and on the larger and smaller sizes the price is about 1-8 cent under last year." It was explained that small size values are not as yet fully established on account of conditions in the export market; and that on the large sizes the trade has as yet no substantial investment in new crop on which to fully establish values.

"The real bottom under the present market is founded on the recent sale of old crop from the United organization," declared Dunlap, "and those prices should fairly support the first appearance of new crop field values ranging from 3 cents to 3 1-4 cents and 3 1-2 cents on 30-40s and 40-50s. As coast operators have recently invested in old crop merchandise, they have a new interest in sustaining values and with the added effect of recent diminished crop estimate, it would seem that the new crop market can be established and built on the foundation of present field offerings."

Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Anderson and children left today for a motor trip along the Redwood highway.

JUAN PONCE DE LEON

Much of the early life of the gay old cavalier, Juan Ponce de Leon, was spent in the service of his country in its fight to drive the Moors from Spain, but following the discovery of the new world, he settled in Porto Rico where he was known as a rich planter and merchant. With age creeping upon him it was not unusual for him to give attentive ear to the tale of a native chief who claimed to know of a "fountain whose waters would restore the full vigor of youth." This fountain, so the native said, was far in the interior of the mainland. But with unlimited finances at his command, it was not long before the old knight had organized a large expedition and set sail for the coast of Florida.

The trials and disappointments which followed, the long marches through swamp and wilderness, disastrous encounters with hostile natives, and the sickness which attended so much sampling of questionable water, gradually wore down the ranks of the explorers and it was a ragged, disheartened remnant that finally landed at the little settlement Matanzas on the coast of Cuba, a village which Juan Ponce de Leon himself had founded. Hehe the valiant old man suffering with a severe fever, came to an end of his long wanderings, his fountain of youth still undiscovered.

Part of the inscription on his monument, erected over his remains by American forces following their defeat of the Spanish in 1898, reads: "—a man who was a lion by name, and much more so by nature." He was a great leader, a dreamer, and a true adventurer.

TELEPHONE is helping this farmer to make money

A COAST FARMER was in the habit of putting his hogs in the trailer and regularly driving eight miles to town with them. If unsuccessful in getting his price at the local markets he would cart the hogs home again.

He was urged to install a telephone and call the local markets first. This he did. The saving in oil, gas, wear and tear and pork poundage was soon found to be far greater than the small cost of telephone service.

Now that farmer has more time and his telephone is there, handy for other matters too.

Kiwanis Notes

California motor traffic laws were discussed at Kiwanis luncheon Tuesday by Attorney Frank V. Campbell who has made quite a study of that section of the state code.

Today there are registered in these United States 25 million motor vehicles and a decrease of accidents can only be brought about by the more careful driving of each individual operator.

Minors should not be permitted to drive cars unless absolutely necessary and then the car owner should carry a rider on his insurance policy. The owner is responsible for accidents caused by his car, even though the car had been loaned to a friend.

Owners are held responsible for accidents occurring to passengers being carried for any consideration. In case of accident, all possible data, measurements, names and addresses of witnesses should be obtained at the time and written down that the facts may be established while fresh in mind as a foundation for a possible case in court.

Miss Lulu Murdock is confined to her home with a sprained ankle.

Walter Stray had the misfortune to run a nail in his foot yesterday.

Corn Concoctions

UNUSUAL concoctions can nowadays be made with even so usual a vegetable as ever popular corn. Here are a couple.

Escalloped Corn, Celery and Olives: Boil one cup diced celery five minutes, and drain. Put alternate layers of the contents of a 10½-ounce can whole kernel corn, the celery and one-fourth cup chopped ripe olives in a baking dish, sprinkling with three-fourths teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper. Dot top with two tablespoons butter, pour over two-thirds cup milk, and cover with half a cup buttered crumbs. Bake for about forty-five minutes in a 375 degree oven, or until the celery is tender. Serves six.

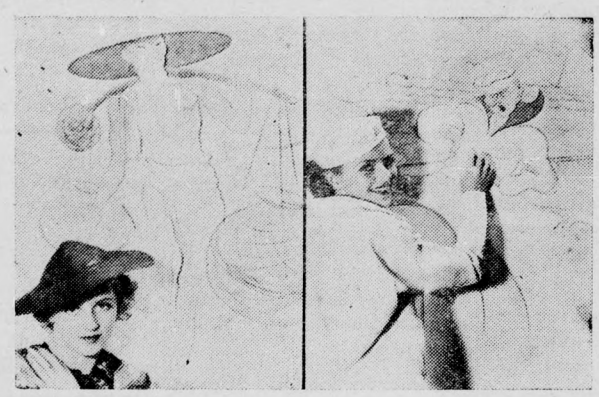
Vegetable Casserole: Cook two tablespoons chopped onion in four tablespoons butter until pale yellow. Add the contents of an 11-ounce can corn, four medium tomatoes cut in small pieces, and one summer squash (weighing about one pound), peeled and also cut small. Season with salt and pepper and pour into a baking dish. Cover and bake for about forty-five minutes in a 375 degree oven. Serves eight.

A Cheap Corn Dish

If you want a tasty dish that it costs less than thirty-five cents to serve to four people, try this

Deviled Corn Scallop: Mix together two cups canned corn and the contents of a 2¾-ounce can deviled ham, and season to taste with salt and pepper. Pour half into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with a few crumbs, add rest of corn, and pour in one-third cup milk. Cover with the rest or half a cup crumbs to which two tablespoons melted butter has been added. Bake in a moderate — 375 degree — oven for thirty minutes. Serves four.*

HATS ON PARADE



(2) Sailor beware! Your hat has been stolen to fashion this nautical white straw bonnet with grasgrain ribbon trim.

(3) The graceful lines of a bird's wings inspired this new treatment of the beret with quill trim to add a novel note. All poses by Betty Furness.

A. B. Langford Thanks Voters

To the Voting Public of Santa Clara county—I am taking this means to thank sincerely all those who proved themselves to be my friends at the primary election of Aug. 28. It was their good votes that returned me to the office of county auditor of Santa Clara county and for which I am very grateful. I want to express my appreciation of the clean fight made by my opponent, Mr. Weller.

Very sincerely yours,
Arthur B. Langford

Odd Rainfalls

Golden rain, yellow rain and "showers of sulphur" occur now and then. A shower of this sort sent scores of frightened peasants into the churches of Luxembourg a few years ago, as they feared that it forboded punishment for the numerous sins which doubtless they had on their consciences. These yellow rains are due to the presence in the upper air of large quantities of pollen of certain pines and fir trees.

Mrs. Floyd O. Bohnett and sons left Saturday for a brief vacation at Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Cramer returned Wednesday from a summer vacation spent at Echo lodge in the Sierras.
